Is there a way of subscribing to changes in the extension of the media element on the HTML-page? I want to make sure that when a webvtt file is changed on the server, the webvtt is rendered from cache before the client downloads the new version of the file. A: You can implement WebKitDelegate's

-webFrame:resource:metadataChunk:didReceiveMetadata to receive notifications about any webkit-related change in a web vtt resource. You may use it to save the resource locally. Or you can read content from response's HTTP body to get the differences, but it's not a good idea. Emme was sent into the men's locker room, and began to flirt with and put his hands on the boys, he also reached under their shirts and pulled them away. Multiple boys witnessed the incident. When a teacher walked into the room she saw the boys, but when she walked back into the locker room a student said that Emme had been touching him. He said that Emme reached underneath his shirt, cupped his genitals, and pulled it away. One of the boys was in a tough situation. Emme was the senior guy in the school and he was also one of the most popular boys in the school, and he was playing with the boys in the locker room after school, which was a very inappropriate place for high school boys to be. After this incident, a teacher called the boys parents who came to the school and talked to the boy, and at that point they felt the safest place was to remove him from the school and send him to the Crisis Center. What the teacher and the students should be concerned about, is that there are younger boys than him who are involved in this, and who may be doing something they weren't aware of.

The Legend of Zelda: Breath of the Wild is the most downloaded game in the history of the Wii U. Will it be the best Zelda title yet? Check out our Review. RZA is only 21 years old, but he's already been playing music for a long time. RZA, born Radric Davis, spent the first few years of his musical career in legendary hip-hop group Wu-Tang Clan, one of the first rap groups ever created. RZA left the Wu-Tang in 2005 to pursue acting, and has since established himself as one of the most successful and well-known Asian-American actors. RZA produced the cult hit film Rocky (1976), and the martial arts classic Enter the Dragon (1973). He's appeared in some great cult classics like Shaft (2000), City of God (2002), and Grudge Match (2009). And his most recent work can be seen in The Man With the Iron Fists (2013). The rest of RZA's credits include Boom!, the director's debut, as well as the upcoming Che, starring Ashton Kutcher. He can also be heard on Walt Disney Pictures' upcoming Winnie the Pooh movie, as well as on the roles of characters like The Six Million Dollar Man and The Man With the X-Ray Eyes. RZA also recently appeared in the new 2014 sci-fi movie Ender's Game. And now RZA is making the jump to comedy. RZA is now starring in "Speechless," a new film featuring Kevin Hart, Ken Jeong, and Ed Helms. So far, I've seen 30 minutes of the film, and it's pretty damn funny. RZA plays the close-minded leader of a stage crew, who is forced to go undercover to deliver an award speech for the movie Speechless, starring Hart and Helms. The three characters -- who have no idea that they are speaking to RZA -- share stories about race relations in America. RZA, who is half-Asian, is an actor who isn't afraid to play himself and who is an absolute force when it comes to voice work. I don't know where RZA will take his career next, but I'm sure it will be good. Speechless is in theaters Friday, August 16. Watch the trailer below!
