Dover Conservative Party stalwart Ronnie Campbell had been MP for ten years and had been under fire during the parliamentary expenses scandal. Conservative Diana Johnson was a newcomer, and Labour's Laurie Short had been MP for Dover only since the February election, which saw Labour lose their deposit. The Tories went into the hustings as favourites, but Short left the audience spellbound with her speech and promising theme song by East 17. 'Wake up, you're in danger zone'. The Labour candidate was somewhat less successful, but was at least backed by a local newspaper. You can watch the entire hustings at the link above, and the band East 17 are featured. In the New Year, Westminster City Council planned to build a "pilgrimage" round Westminster Abbey to look at possible venues for a new, permanent abbey visitor centre. The choir would be open, and the abbey would be open, but that was about it. Members were invited, and Westminster Cathedral would host the event, but that is as far as it went. A group called Friends of Westminster Abbey launched a campaign to raise the money for the abbey to build a permanent visitor centre. The organist is playing and choirmaster David Daniels is conducting. "My memories are getting a little bit mixed up so I don't quite know how much of this actually happened," comments organist David Crossman. "The abbey had received a grant from the Heritage Lottery Fund, but didn't actually spend the money. As a result, there was a huge pile of bricks left where the abbey visitor centre was supposed to be." The volunteers are engaged in a build-to-match-a-donation campaign, collecting as many donations as possible and building the visitor centre with them. "We have got weaps of donations from all over the world," laughs the organist,
